Why do I record these Creative aspects of my life? Primarily, I suppose, to make it known that there are some people in the world today who can, without the standard conveniences of the modern world, live very comfortably and elegantly and simply. There are many people who are "just waiting" for me to throw in the towel and declare the Eldredge experiment a failure. They want me to fail at doing what I am doing because they could not do what I am doing and so it would make them ("the others") feel better if I fail at doing what they cannot do. ONVerra. It is now 11:30 AM and "Mrs. Kozmarick" has not yet done any teaching today — homeroom/preparation/hall duty/dept. head/study hall. Amazing. And following this study hall, I have lunch. I think that this is about the easiest substitute teaching assignment that I have ever had. That is just fine with me. Several students have, today, admired my Dupont pen — just now, Jim Tannedo & Vic Voglins did an "appreciation" of my pen. I told them about the pen and asked them if they wanted to try it out. They declined. Nice guys. I have had both of them in other classes — Tannedo in Mrs. Ciambone's business class about ten days ago. Voglins — I'm not sure when.

2nd period — the students, seven of them, are busy doing "free writing" in their journals, and so am I. There are many students absent today, especially among the seniors. No "free writing" that these students are doing is not exactly "free" because Mrs. Kozmarick collects their journals and reads them. No students could not, for example, speak frankly in their journals about their teachers/teachers. Shouldn't one's journal be a no-holds-barred situation? I believe it should. Curiously, I write my journal to be read and yet I speak very frankly and openly in it. Perhaps it is a question of learning how to speak frankly and openly and yet not place yourself in a painfully vulnerable situation? What do you put down as refined? What do you put down transformed? An interesting question to be sure.

How do you make the "job" disappear and then do exactly what you want? I seem to have a masterful talent for so doing. I worked at Solomon Brothers but I worked for S.R.P. I worked at the Carbondale News but I worked for S.R.P. I am a substitute teacher, working at various districts, but I am working for S.R.P. I am, for example, being paid to write these lines — the students are going about their business and I am going about my business. All is well with the world.

Jim De Lury } "A" period —

nice guys; somewhat inclined to "noise" & precluding each other but nice guys; I did say "aesthetic appreciation" spiel and they listened attentively & then JVB came by my classroom with some mail from Box 151 & I went out into the hall to see him & the students were much too involved with their own first person affairs to get back into the coherent frame of mind for a session on aesthetic appreciation. No matter; the class was just about over anyway. Will JVB materialize again at 3 P.M. when the day is over?

"K" period —

Laura was in the class; we were very "cool" in our dealing with each other; we both played it, that is to say, as though we were not related.

David Linggs — wearing a #27 football jersey — the standard CAHS football player type; surrounded by his adoring classmates.
